

Healthy Relationships: Navigating Cyberviolence and Cyberbullying 2.0

Webinar
May 2023

Presenters: Laura Somerville and Linda Massey

Land Acknowledgement

I acknowledge that I am on the traditional territory of nations within nations including the Anishnaabe, the Ojibwe and the Michi Saagiig, land which continues to be home to many diverse First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples.

I am grateful for the enduring presence of Indigenous peoples as past, present and future caretakers of these lands on which I work and play.

I am committed to continue to deepen my understanding and learning about my role and how I can work toward decolonization as an individual and as part of a community. I am grateful to those who are my teachers and my partners.

Why is This Important?

Canadian Red Cross

Canadian teachers ranked cyberbullying as their issue of highest concern out of six listed options

89% said bullying and violence are serious problems in our public schools

Stop a Bully Canada

1 in 5 Canadian teens have witnessed online bullying

25% of kids between 12-15 have witnessed cyberbullying

51% of all teens have had negative experience with social networking

Has the pandemic and confinement had an effect on cyberbullying and cyberviolence?

CANADIAN CENTRE for CHILD PROTECTION®
Helping families. Protecting children.

- Cybertip.ca
- More youth spending time online during the pandemic
- National tipline sees rise in reports of sextortion
- 88% increase in online sexual exploitation of children, including a form a victimization called sextortion.

- 62% increase in reports of teens being sextorted over the past six months, with males, ages 15–17, being the biggest target.

September 24, 2021.

- Over the past year, Cybertip.ca, Canada's tip line for reporting online child sexual abuse and exploitation, has seen a 37% increase in the overall online victimization of youth.
